THOUGHT NURSE WAS KIDNAPPED

Town of Milroy Worked up to a High Pitch Over Girl's Disappearance

LEFT HERE IN A BUGGY

And it was Midnight Before the Mystery was Cleared up—
Searching Parties Out

Miss Mary Shanck, a pretty nurse of some twenty-two or three years of age, from Indianapolis, applied at the Owen L. Carr livery barn last night about six o'clock for a horse and buggy and driver and asked to be driven to Milroy.

Olyde Reed, a young man employed at the stable was intrusted to the task of accompanying the lady, and with all due haste started out for the town on the south, where an anxious family was awaiting the services of the nurse.

About ten o'clock came inquiries to the barn asking if the lady had left here, and being apprised that she had, much alarm was expressed for her safety and whereabouts as nothing had been seen or heard of her along the way. Another half hour and the police of this city were notified to start on an investigating tour and four buggies were sent out from Milroy in all directions in hopes of locating the pair. The sentiment expressed in Milroy was that the lady had been kidnapped and it caused no end of excitement.

City Marshal Price and Officer Pea were at once up and doing and for a time it looked as if a sensation was going to materialize. When the shivering young driver came rolling in about midnight the matter was at once cleared up and the tragedy was turned into a comedy. He has only been in this county for a year, coming here from Jefferson county and therefore was not well acquainted with the roads. Heretofore he has confined his driving to daylight trips and was generally sent out with parties who knew the routes.

Last night when the couple left here for Milroy it was just turning dark. They got along very well until they reached the Bennett crossroads about four miles south of here. At that point they turned in the wrong direction and another three-quarters of an hour drive brought them back to the edge of the city. There was nothing to do but to start "all over" and again they got off on the wrong foot. Finally, by making inquiries along the route they found their way towards the coveted point, and when near Milroy they came upon Dr. Houghland, one of the parties out searching for them, who directed them in the town, where half the population was "up and around" and worked up to a high pitch of excitement. It then required half an hour to round up the searchers and call them in.

BREAK INTO THE I. & C. MONEY TILL

Thieves Pry Open Drawer at the Freight Depot and Found it Empty

Evidently thinking there was a large sum of money in a drawer used for that purpose during the day at the I. & C. freight depot on Julian and Third streets, thieves broke into the place last night and pried open the drawer, but drew a "blank" for their pains. No monies are kept in the drawer over night. No clues were obtained.

ALL RECEIVE A JOLT WHEN WHEEL COMES OFF WAGON

The red in the American flag was a deeper blush when the party from the Francis Bros. factory returned from Cincinnati Monday after celebrating Washington's Birthday there. The party was detained in the Queen City forty-eight hours longer than they intended to remain as a wheel came off a wagon they were riding on, all receiving a severe jolt and shaking up.

ATTEMPTED TO ROB RICHLAND STORE

But the Midnight P. owlers were Frightened Away—Home
Talent is Suspected

An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the J. W. Canady store at Richland Monday night. Mr. Canady was in Indianapolis buying goods, and this has caused the denizens of that locality to suspect local talent.

The would-be robbers were prying at a window when discovered and frightened away by the people living in the home adjoining the Canady store.

ATTACKED MEN AS THEY SLEPT

Charles Barrett Wielded Deadly Weapon. Laying Out
Two Men Last Night

DOCTOR SEWS THE WOUND

Water and Light Plant Scene of Drunken Men's Demoniacal
Attack at Midnight

The water and light plant was the scene of a rough house about midnight last night, two men being injured, one of them having a narrow escape from serious injury or possible death.

At the hour stated a rap came at the big doors leading to the boiler room and no one responding to the summons, in the next instant the doors were broken open and Charles Barrett bounded into the place. He was much the worse off for liquor and reeled about the room under a heavy load of the oil of joy.

Since the night of the Dave Powell saloon fire, R. T. (Barber) Johnson, the colored barber, who was burned out in the fire, has been sleeping at the water and light plant. Charles Wolfe, well known in police circles, has shared a bed with Johnson on the cement floor, well up near the hot boilers since that time. The two men were asleep when Barrett first knocked for entrance, and were awakened when he bursted in through the doors. Wolfe jumped to his feet, more asleep than awake, but was soon laid low when Barrett struck him, for no reason at all, over the head with a heavy gas pipe cutter. Johnson, who had been heaving coal for his lodging early in the evening, was tired and had made no effort to rise. Barrett rushed at him as he lay upon the floor and struck him over the head, knocking him unconscious.

Officer Pea was summoned, but Barrett had made good his escape before the officer arrived. Johnson was taken to the residence of Dr. Will Coleman, where the wound in his head was sewn up.

A search of the railroad yards was then made for Barrett, but it was learned that he had made a "get-away" on a freight shortly after the attack was made on the two men. Johnson is suffering intense pain from his injuries today and says he will go before the grand jury to make an affidavit against Barrett, which will be of a serious nature. The implement which he used will weigh about ten pounds and is a dangerous and deadly thing to strike one with.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Delta Hinchman's cup of sorrow is as tall as his stature, according to the word being passed among his friends. Since the advent of the new and Leap Year, it is said that Delta has cultivated the acquaintance and endearing friendship of a clever, little Cincinnati girl, until matters had reached a stage where the Rushville swain was longing for the summer dollar excursion that he might be near her side at the Zoo, Coney Island, Chester Park and other watering places. Yesterday a heavy and crushing blow fell upon his heart. He received a neat package from the Queen City, and it was with much joy that he unwrapped it, fully expecting a pleasant surprise from the Buckeye Beauty. Ye gods! Upon taking away the last bit of pink tissue paper, there he found a full sized, healthy, yellow lemon. Fellows on the inside claim that the trick was turned by local talent here—some of the Commercial block cut-ups. An investigation will follow.

--Jack Knecht, of the Knecht Clothing company, went to Brookville today to attend the wedding of his cousin.

AWOKE TO HEAR DEATH STRUGGLE

D. M. Kirkwood of Carthage,
a Victim of Apoplexy this Morning

HIS GOOD WIFE AWAKENED

To Hear him Breathe his Last—Carthage Schools will Hold
a Memorial

At an early hour this morning Mrs. D. M. Kirkwood, of Carthage, awoke on hearing her husband breathing heavily, and called to him but received no response. On instituting a hasty investigation the wife learned that her husband was critically ill and immediately summoned a physician, but before he arrived, the soul of her life's mate had gone across the border land into eternity, a victim of apoplexy.

D. M. Kirkwood was 70 years of age, and one of the highly respected citizens of Carthage, where for twenty years he had lived. He was a prominent member of the Christian church and for seven years served on the town school board which has an enviable record for accomplishments since deceased was a member.

Deceased was a member of the Masonic order, and for some time has been the administrator of the Small estate. Mr. Kirkwood was twice married, his first wife being Martha Filer, of Carthage. After her death he married Jennie Steele, of Knights-town, who survives him. Three children were born to the two unions but all succumbed.

A memorial will be held in the Carthage school tomorrow morning, honoring Mr. Kirkwood.

The funeral services will be held at the Christian church in Carthage Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Burial at Carthage.

EXCITED OVER A PEEPING TOM

Police Called out to North Sexton
Street Last Night by Incensed
Residents

Last night about eight-thirty o'clock, the denizens of North Sexton street were highly worked up over the strange actions of a man in that locality. The fellow who caused the consternation was tall and wore a long coat and cap and was seen to peep into a house on the corner of Eighth and Sexton street. Later he was seen near the Percy Wright home near Seventh street.

A "riot call" was sent to the police headquarters, the Windsor hotel and Desk Sergeant John Freeman hastily notified City Marshal Price and Policeman Pea and the officers were soon upon the scene, but nothing could be seen of the man upon the scene.

In all probability some mission, other than robbery is accountable for the fellow's presence there, for every night this week some one has reported seeing such a person in that locality.

Harry Francis, of the Francis Bros. factory, returned here yesterday from an extended trip abroad in the interests of the factory. Mr. Francis visited many cities of England and France in his tour.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Flinn, of South Perkins street, left yesterday for Mississippi to spend a few weeks for the benefit of their health.

FARMERS COULD GET THE LONG GREEN IN LETTUCE

"There's a nice demand for lettuce," said a local grocer, "a nice demand. But the market's what you call shy. We get a little—a bunch here and another there, but not enough to make it pay or to satisfy the trade and we could sell it easy if we had it."

"Of course, nobody will get rich off of lettuce. If the price is too high, folks just wobble along without it, but then, it affords a nice steady market and the price is not so bad. We are offering from eight to ten cents now and real nice goods might bring twelve, and we will take all that comes along."

"You see, Rush county is as good as anywhere else for lettuce growing, with a hot-bed and many a farmer who is warming his shins might be making a few dollars at the same time. Tell 'em to raise a little lettuce."

WALKED FROM SOUTH DAKOTA

Aged Man who Spent Last Night in Rushville has had Long Trip

EN ROUTE TO SIDNEY, OHIO

Where his Children Live—Old Fellow was a Happy Soul and Enjoys Globe Trotting

Last night an aged man came tramping into Rushville and sought a place of shelter from Officer Pea. It was learned that the fellow had walked all the way from South Dakota, leaving there seven weeks ago. He had been spending the summer with a son in that country and was on his way to Sidney, Ohio, where he has three other children.

The old fellow was an optimist through and through and rather seemed to enjoy his long walk despite the bad weather of the past few weeks. Smilingly he said he would be in Sidney within a week, as he figures on walking twenty-five miles every twenty-four hours.

The officer took up a collection from the employees at the city power house and secured enough to buy the pedestrian his supper and breakfast. He was lodged in jail over night.

Since he started on his long journey afoot, he has only been able to get one full day's work and for that he received but twenty-five cents. He said the farmer for whom he worked had to go to a neighbor and borrow the money to pay him, so he just walked off saying to himself that if he was not worth more than that amount, he surely was not worth anything. He gave his name as Henry Grimes, aged fifty-eight years.

RUSHVILLE BOY WILL RETURN FROM OKLAHOMA

Oil Wells Have Failed and Thrown Many out of Employment

"A letter has been received [from Bartlesville, Oklahoma, stating that owing to a failure in the oil fields there, Ralph Cox will return to his home in this city in a few days. Several other Rushville and Rush county people are located in that section of the country and it may be the means of an increase in the population of Rushville.

Several Indiana men have been thrown out of employment.

TRIED TO HAVE OL DALE OUSTED

Howard Barrett, the Modern Moses, is Playing a Spectacular Game

PROMPTLY VOTED DOWN

Was the Resolution Asking for Dale's Resignation—Books
will be Audited

The board of directors of the Co-Operative Telephone company met in special called session yesterday afternoon on the call of T. M. Green, president.

Howard E. Barrett, whom many of the stockholders of the company openly charge with playing a spectacular game in order to further his own interests and the interests of a newspaper in which he holds stock, introduced a resolution asking for the resignation of O. M. Dale, secretary.

During the past few weeks, Barrett, through a medium of his "official mouthpiece," which has backed him up, making political matter of a purely business proposition, has issued more bulls than a South American president sitting on a tottering throne. He barks but he will not bite. In his resolution yesterday, he did not make any specific charges against Dale, consequently the matter was received with a sack of salt. T. resolution was promptly voted down.

Being a lawyer and a business man, Barrett should exercise more judgment and if he has sufficient evidence to warrant the removal of any official, specific charges should be made, any board of sane directors would demand that.

In order that the cloud of suspicion might be lifted, or if there was anything wrong that it should be known, Owen L. Carr introduced a motion that the books of the company be audited by an expert accountant and that the investigation extend back to the time Wilson T. Jackson became secretary. The motion carried and the books will be properly gone over in a satisfactory manner.

Barrett's position all along has been that he was the Moses who would lead the people into the land of Honesty, and that he alone could do it; he has said as much above his own signature. But it was found, like all men who preach their goodness from the housetops that his halo was made of tin and that it was tarnishable.

W. D. Root, another director who made a plain statement of facts against Barrett and the proposals of crookedness he made to him once, has asked why Barrett does not answer and refute the statements if they are false.

FIFTY FEET OF THE SEWER EXCAVATION CAVES IN

The sewer excavation on Third street, near Arthur caved in last night, following the continued rains and the thaw and about fifty feet was filled up in the deep trench. It required all the forenoon and no little expense to clear it again.

THE WEATHER

Generally fair tonight and Thursday, except snow in extreme north-west portion. Colder tonight.

—Mrs. Jet Parker, of North Harrison street, has gone to Bluffton on account of the illness of her mother. She will remain at that place indefinitely.

In the divorce case of Mrs. Mary Stiers vs. Lifford Stiers on default of defendant, the court has ordered the prosecuting attorney to appear to defend the case.

Mrs. William Stevens, of West Ninth street, is critically ill with cancer.

TRAITOR IN CAMP

Hartford City Society Woman
Tips Off Club Members
to Mayor.

SINCE "LID" WAS PUT ON

Parlor Card Games Have Been Run
Strictly on the Q. T., But Now the Stuff's All Off.

Mayor Lucas Has a List of Every Card Playing Woman in Town
and Consternation Reigns.

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 26.—Members of the women's clubs, which under the reign of the blue laws invoked
by Mayor James Lucas five weeks ago, were prohibited from playing cards for prizes, have just made the startling discovery that there is a traitor in their midst. All society is excited under fear of arrest for violating the laws.

When the mayor issued his ultimatum
prohibiting card playing for prizes
under pain of prosecution, the practice was never stopped, but the women were more stealthy in their operations. Notices of the meetings of clubs were printed without giving the names of the prize winners, but now
the mayor has created great confusion
among club members by announcing
that he has on file in his office a list
of practically every woman card player in the city, along with a list of those who have won prizes in the games played since the "lid" was put
on. These lists, he says, were furnished him by one of the women attending the meetings, and will be held
for evidence should any action be started. While the mayor says he does not intend to file any affidavits,
he will give the information he possesses to any citizen desiring to prosecute the women.

WENT TO THEIR HEADS

Two Evansville Boys the Victims of Lurid Literature.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 26.—Henry Newman, aged eighteen, and Ed Richardson, aged nineteen, who, it is said,
from early boyhood have read wild
west novels, attempted to "shoot up
the town."

They obtained a horse and buggy
and drove along, firing their revolvers
promiscuously at men, women and children on the streets. They fired
about fifty shots, but luckily all went wild and no one was hurt. Patrolmen and detectives, joined by infuriated citizens, followed the young men
nine miles into the country. The young men drove their horse to death
before they were captured, and one horse driven by the policemen was also driven to death.

The young men showed fight when surrounded, but their ammunition ran out and they were compelled to give
up. They were hauled into town in a big wagon.

Seed Corn Defective.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 26.—During the last two months members of the Purdue university experiment station have made a study of the seed corn of the state and find the vitality of much of it to be in a serious condition. The unusual cold, wet season of 1907 did not allow the corn to mature and dry out before the time of frosts. In the early part of October much of the corn
of the state was still in a moist and immature condition, and the series of hard freezes which came at that time materially injured the vitality. The result of these conditions is that those corn growers who depended on late
selected seed, are now finding on close examination many ears of questionable vitality. For these reasons all seed corn should be specially selected and thoroughly tested. A test of each individual ear should be made and all
weak or dead ears should be discarded.

Found Her Cottage Despoiled.

Portland, Ind., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Thos.
Cheek of Dunkirk returned from a
two months' visit to relatives in Wheeling, W. Va., to find that during her absence her husband had been tried and convicted of attacking a girl and was already in prison, and
that creditors had raided their cozily
furnished cottage, stripping it of china,
silverware, carpets, sewing machine, etc., in satisfaction of claims against the husband, who was in debt.
She has consulted the prosecuting attorney, who is investigating the seizure.
Mrs. Cheek was in ignorance of the trouble befalling her husband until her return, letters forwarded to her
having failed of delivery.

Held on Serious Charge.

Petersburg, Ind., Feb. 26.—Elijah
Krieg, who has a barber shop adjoining the office of the Sunshine Building and Loan association, has been arrested accused of murderously assaulting John Hammond, secretary of the association, several nights ago, in an alleged endeavor to rob him of the funds of the association, which he was carrying home. Hammond repulsed
his assailant, but not till he was terribly beaten, and he only recovered a day or two ago. Before a court of inquiry he testified against Krieg, and the arrest followed. Krieg has been in trouble before, it is said.

TALKING THINGS OVER

Congress Engages in Another Discussion of Timely Issues.

Washington, Feb. 26.—General debate on the army appropriation bill in the house of representatives again
furnished opportunity for free expression of opinion on the issues of the day. Mr. Garrett of Tennessee and Mr. Pou of North Carolina arraigned
the Republican party for its policies
with regard to the tariff, while Mr.
Hayes of California denounced the financial system of the United States
as "patchwork" and the Aldrich bill
as "falling far short of the remedial legislation needed." The only remarks pertinent to the army bill were made by Mr. Parker of New Jersey,
who spoke in favor of the proposition
of increased pay for the officers and men, and Mr. Kustermann of Wisconsin, in support of restoration of the canteen. The seven hours allowed for general debate on the bill will expire
today, when the measure will be read
for amendment.

Currency legislation was the chief topic before the senate. For nearly three hours Senator Robert L. Owen
of Oklahoma spoke on the Aldrich
bill, claiming that he had through ex-Senator Jones of Arkansas in 1900
proposed legislation somewhat similar to the bill under consideration, but
with essential differences which he declared would have prevented the recent panic had it been enacted into law.

Mr. Owen received close attention
from the senators and was frequently interrupted with questions, which led to spirited debate. The Indian appropriation bill received the consideration of the senate during a part of the day. The bill was read through.

STRANDED SEAMAN

Will Be the Object of Search by One of Bob's Ships.

Lima, Feb. 26.—The tender Yankton
will leave here on Friday for the Galapagos Islands to search for the American seaman, Frederick Jeffs, who is stranded on Indefatigable island, the wildest of the group which lies off the western coast of Ecuador.

Jeffs was a member of the crew of the Norwegian vessel Alexandria,
bound from New Castle, N. S. W., to Panama. She was blown off her course by a storm and was wrecked off
the islands, Jeffs being one of those who managed to reach shore. Eventually all but Jeffs of the shipwrecked
sailors were rescued by a merchant-
man. The fact that he remained practically alone on the island was communicated to the American government, which ordered Rear Admiral Evans to send out one of his ships to bring him back to the world again.

Seaman Fatally Hurt.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 26.—Ordinary Sea-
man Herbert L. Preston was killed
aboard the battleship Maine by a falling block during the coaling of the ship. His skull was fractured.

Preparing for Brunaugh Trial.

Indianapolis, Feb. 26.—A special
venue of seventy-five names for jury
service in the case of Harry Brunaugh
has been drawn by the jury commissioners. The trial of Brunaugh on a charge of presenting a false and fraudulent bill to the county in the asphalt
repair cases is to start Monday morning. Among other names on the venue is that of George Huggins, father of Emmett S. Huggins, now under arrest, charged with forgery in connection with the courthouse scandals.

Huston Gets the Blame.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 26.—Former Auditor General Snyder, the first of the defendants in the state capitol
conspiracy trial to take the stand in his own behalf, under cross-examination reasserted that he had never done
anything knowingly wrong, as regarding payments on capitol contracts, and
he again shouldered all the responsibility as to the weights and measurements and price decisions of furnishings upon the shoulders of Architect Huston.

Wu Ting Fang's Retort.

Wu Ting Fang's return to Washington as Chinese minister is beginning to produce a new crop of stories illustrating his readiness of retort. The other day the lady who sat next him
at dinner asked him why the Chinese attached so much importance to the dragon. "You know there is no such creature, don't you?" she asked. "You have never seen one, have you?" "My
dear madam," replied the oriental di-plomatist, "why do you attach so much importance to the Goddess of Liberty
on your coins? You know there is no such lady, don't you? You have never seen her, have you?"

Special Telephone For His Servants.

That his servants may converse
without annoying members of the family with their "steadies" of either sex
Charles F. Brush, millionaire and electrical inventor, has installed a second
private branch telephone exchange in his Euclid avenue home in Cleveland,
O. The exchange, with its special operator, connects with each of the servants' rooms. It has a connection also with the family exchange that orders
may be delivered.

President's Suggestion Accepted.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The Southern Railway company, having failed in its efforts to reach an agreement with
its employees in the matter of a reduction in their wages, has called upon
the interstate commerce commission
and the bureau of labor to mediate
under the Erdman act.

GUILT OF NEGROES

Has Been Declared by Committee Investigating the Brownsville "Affair."

A VOTE OF EIGHT TO FOUR

Majority of Republican Members Support Foraker, But Democrats
Vote the Defense Down.

The Fight Will Be Carried to the Floor of the Senate Where
"Doings" Are Expected.

Washington, Feb. 26.—That the
shooting in the affray at Brownsville,
Tex., on the night of Aug. 13-14, 1906,
was done by some of the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth United States
infantry and that the testimony taken
before the senate committee on military affairs fails to identify the guilty
parties, is the opinion of eight members of the committee. Four members of the committee voted against
this decision, and one member did not vote. The resolution declaring the guilt of the negroes was submitted by Senator Lodge and was adopted after five resolutions by Senator Foraker,
one by Senator Dupont and one by Senator Scott, all of which were offered as substitutes, had been voted down.

The vote was reached after prolonged investigation extending over
two sessions of congress, and evidence
had been taken covering thousands of pages. Practically every negro of the three companies of infantry dishon-
orably discharged by President Roosevelt, testified in his own behalf, while
evidence in support of the president
was given by many army officers and citizens of Brownsville. Throughout the entire controversy, which in many sections of the country has been made
a political issue, the anti-administration action has been directed by Senator Foraker. In the final vote in the committee a majority of the Republican members came to his support.
The Ohio senator expressed himself
as gratified at this, as it was apparent from the outset that all of the Democratic members were convinced that the negroes did the shooting.

The fight will be carried to the floor of the senate. The reports of the committee will not be made for about ten days, as Senator Warner, who conducted the examination of witnesses
on behalf of the administration, will be absent from Washington for that period. After the reports have been made to the senate it is expected that Senator Foraker will press the matter
to a vote there. If he should secure the same proportion of the Republican members of the senate as he had in
the committee, the vote will be closer than has been anticipated. The Ohio senator proposes also to introduce a bill to restore to the military service
such of the discharged negroes as were shown beyond a reasonable doubt to have been innocent of any offense connected with the affray.

Conversation.

The reason why so few people are
agreeable in conversation is that each
is thinking more of what he is intending to say than of what others are saying, and we never listen when we are planning to speak.—Rochefoucauld.

POLITICAL ISSUE

This Is What President Truesdale Calls "Abuses of the Railways."

REAL UNDERLYING CAUSE

Of "General Indiscriminate Abuse" Is Desire of the Two Great Parties to Make Politics.

"Sins of the Railroads" to Be the Leading Issue of Coming Campaign, Says He.

New York, Feb. 26.—The underlying cause of all the "general indiscriminate abuses of the railways and their management" and of the "paralytic stroke" which they have suffered, was attributed by W. H. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, to the alleged plans of the great political parties to make the sins of the railroads the leading political issue of the coming campaign. This statement was made in Mr. Truesdale's annual report to the stockholders of the road. He began by saying that the outlook for 1908 as respects earnings of railroads is anything but encouraging. Opinion as to the causes of existing conditions differ widely, he said, but there has been "engendered a widespread distrust of the management and financial standing and soundness of all the railroads of the country."

WILLIAM H. TRUESDALE.

Continuing, he said, "the two great political parties of the country, in planning their forthcoming presidential campaigns, make the sins of the railroads and their management and drastic corrections of the same, their leading issues, and herein may be found the real underlying cause of all the general, indiscriminate abuse of the railways and their management, and of the paralytic stroke which they and all interests connected with them have suffered. With great foresight and shrewdness those who have planned and are responsible for this political program have alienated from the railroads the chief political influence that they might and should have every reason to expect would use their influence to protect them against a campaign of this kind, their own employees. This has been accomplished by the passage of certain laws limiting the hours of service, wages, conditions of employment generally and others more far-reaching have been promised and are now pending. After declaring that the sweeping denunciation of the managing authorities has weakened their authority over their employees, Mr. Truesdale added:

"The tendency, furthermore, to place the control of the railways and their operation down to the minutest details in the hands of public officers, boards or commissions, all of which are subject to political influences to a greater or less degree, is by no means hopeful or reassuring as respects the future value or efficiency of the transportation facilities of the country."

Mr. Truesdale was re-elected president of the company and William Fahnestock was chosen a director to succeed the late Samuel Sloan.

Stoessel Asks for Pardon.
St. Petersburg, Feb. 26.—Lieutenant General Stoessel who on Feb. 20 was condemned to death for the surrender of the Port Arthur fortress to the Japanese, has petitioned Emperor Nicholas for a full pardon. The court recommended that the death sentence be commuted to ten years' imprisonment in a fortress, and that the general be excluded from the service.

Something New for Western.
Cincinnati, Feb. 26.—At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Western College for Women, Oxford, O., here yesterday, John Grant Newman of Wyoming, O., was elected president of the institution. This is the first time in the history of the college, a period of fifty-three years, that a man has been president.

Impeachment Trial Continued.
Logansport, Ind., Feb. 26.—After a hearing of a part of the evidence in the impeachment trial of Mayor McKee last night, the council adjourned until tonight.

BAY STATE HAS FIRST AMERICAN LINEN MILL.

Mechanical and Chemical Process That Saves Time, Labor and Money Puts New Industry on Profit Making Basis.

With the announcement that a process of linen making has been discovered adaptable to American conditions keen interest is manifested in the details of the process by which it is expected that a large part of the $20,000,000 now spent abroad for linens will be kept at home. The Mudge process controlled by the Oxford Linen mills, whose first plant is being equipped at North Brookfield, Mass., is as follows: The flax straw is fed into a machine that removes the seed and passes the straw to a set of fluted rollers, which, after breaking it, discharge it into revolving drums equipped with scutching and hackling machinery. In these drums the shive, or woody portion, is loosened from the fiber, which is now ready, after a final cleaning, to be passed into the tubs for the secret chemical treatment that removes the gums and bleaches the fiber to a pure white.

This process takes only a day to produce results that require sixteen weeks by European methods. Not only is a vast amount of time and labor saved, but the new process yields almost twice as much fiber as the old from a given amount of straw, saves the seed, converts the shive into paper pulp and employs the tow for the making of "savoll," a linen machinery waste, and "oxolint," an absorbent linen for surgical purposes.

With the great economies made possible by this process and using a raw material that costs only a third as much as cotton in the making of fabrics that sell for much higher prices than cottons command, large profits are counted upon in this first successful effort at linen making in the United States, for the process has passed the experimental stage.

EQUAL PAY FOR WOMEN?

The Single Woman's Demand For the Married Man's Wage a New Feature of the Suffrage Movement.

With the admission by the New York women school teachers that they are not working merely for an increase of pay, but for equalization of salaries as between men and women, it is realized that the equal pay movement has become an important feature of the woman suffrage propaganda. This demand for equal pay by the teachers has been taken up by the aggressive suffragettes, who see in it an opportunity to enlist indifferent sisters in the cause.

Nothing less than the equalization of the salaries of single women up to the wage of the married men will satisfy the teachers. That 80 per cent of men teachers are the heads of families and that 60 per cent are aiding other relatives in no way abates the women's demands, nor are they dismayed by the fact that for well settled economic reasons stenographers and other women workers receive less pay than men.

What a concession to the equal pay demand would entail in the way of increased taxation is shown by the fact that it would cost New York city alone over $9,000,000 a year to equalize its school teachers' salaries.

This is only one of the factors that led the superintendent of New York schools to state that "neither by any received economic theory nor by the analogy of any practice in any walk of life can it be regarded as sound policy to determine the salaries of the great majority (women) of the teaching force by the salaries paid to a comparatively few (men) who are employed for special purposes."

Free School Luncheons.

In England the problem of feeding insufficiently nourished school children has become so acute that many municipalities have been compelled to supply free breakfasts at least to thousands of public school pupils. The Salvation Army abandoned its work in this field for awhile, but the need was so great that it had to take it up again, and last year it supplied over 350,000 breakfasts to children at a charge of half a cent each.

In looking for a food that would be cheap and at the same time sufficiently nourishing the experts employed recommended a breakfast consisting of a currant roll weighing six ounces and a mug of cocoa. This decision confirms the conclusions of some of the world's leading diet specialists that currants are one of the most nourishing and wholesome and at the same time one of the cheapest food products.

Dried Currant Pie.

Some day when you wish a new dessert try a dried currant pie. This recipe was originated by a woman one year when fresh fruit was scarce. It proved a great success and was so delicious that it was called for many times afterward. Carefully pick over and wash one pound of currants. When the currants are ready for use pour cold water over them and drain it off just before putting them into a pan lined with pie crust. Cover the fruit with bits of currant, grape or apple jelly, cover the top crust and place in the oven. The heat in baking makes the currants swell up like fresh fruit and melts the jelly into a delicious fruit syrup, thus making a very agreeable substitute for a fresh fruit pie.

Although the plans of the new telegraph company, the Telepost, are being carried on without an undue amount of publicity that might increase the opposition of the old companies, good progress is being made, and the establishment between several of the larger cities of wire service at 25 cents for twenty-five words may be looked for at an early day.

WORLD PEACE MOVE.

To Be Sought Through Exchange of Children's Letters.

SCHOOL PUPILS AS WRITERS.

Plan Proposed For Making Friends of All Nations—Youngsters of Japan and America to Begin Movement That It Is Hoped May End Wars.

A movement for international peace was recently launched at Stamford, Conn., by Wilson L. Gill, LL. D., president of the American Patriotic league, in which President Roosevelt, former President Cleveland and many other prominent men are interested and the offices of which are at 30 East Twentieth street, New York. After the close of the Spanish war Mr. Gill was general supervisor of moral and civic training in the public schools of Cuba under commission from the United States.

Briefly the plan is to establish correspondence between children of the public schools in the United States and the school children in foreign countries, with the idea of making them better acquainted. It is proposed first to make the experiment with the school children of Japan and those of the United States. Professor Makayama of the Normal college at Tokyo, Japan, who is now in New York on a commission from the Japanese government studying new educational methods, has been in communication with Mr. Gill looking to the establishment of school cities in Japan. Mr. Gill is confident Professor Makayama will endorse the correspondence plan. Besides, he says, he has friends of influence in the educational work of Japan upon whom he may rely. He has no doubt of the future of the movement begun in Stamford for the formation of Stamford School Cities, Chapter of the American Protective league, with Superintendent of Schools E. E. Willard as president.

Representatives of foreign governments have approved the plan. One who has given it enthusiastic endorsement is Ernesto Nelson of 605 West One Hundred and Fifteenth street, New York city, special commissioner of education for the Argentine Republic.

Mr. Gill says difference in languages will not be insurmountable.

"The movement is political rather than educational," said Mr. Gill the other night, "and I believe it is one of the greatest political movements ever launched. The people of Japan are ranking under the belief that they were deprived of the fruits of their war with Russia by interference of the United States in bringing that war to an end. The Japanese government is friendly, but the government is representative, and the people may change its officers at any time."

"The only safety, then, is to make the Japanese people realize that we are their friends; that we desire to be friendly with them and expect the same treatment from them. We hope to get that friendship established by correspondence between the children of the two nations. If we can make the children of the two nations friends it is safe to say there will be no war so far as Japan and the United States are concerned."

FOR YOUR SUNDAY DINNER

Try the following delicious dessert:
1 cup English Walnut meats.
3 doz. figs, cut up fine.
1 lb. package JELL-O, any flavor.
Dissolve the JELL-O in a pint of boiling water.
Boil cool and just commencing to thicken stir in the figs and nuts. Serve with Whipped cream. Delicious. The walnuts, figs and JELL-O can be bought at any good grocery. This makes enough dessert for a large family and is very economical.

A Letter Of Interest

The following letter from Postmaster Ben. L. McFarlan is of interest to all our subscribers who receive their paper by mail:

Rushville, Ind. Jan. 9th, 1908.

To The Publishers of The Republican:

Your attention is called to the following changes in the Postal Laws effective April 1st, 1908.

Section 436, Paragraph 3.

A reasonable time will be allowed publishers to secure renewals of subscriptions, but unless subscriptions are expressly renewed after the term of which they are paid, within the following periods:

Dailies, within three months;
Semi-Weeklies, within nine months;

They shall not be counted in the legitimate list of subscribers, and copies mailed on account thereof shall not be accepted for mailing at the second class rate of postage of one cent a pound, but may be mailed at the transient rate of one cent for each copy, prepaid by stamps affixed. The right of a publisher to extend credit for subscriptions is not denied or questioned, but his compliance or non-compliance with this regulation will be taken into consideration in determining whether the publication is entitled to transmission at the second-class postage rates.

Respectfully,

BEN L. MCFARLAN,

Postmaster.

To make a long story short the sum substance of the letter is "Pay Your Subscription in Advance."

This course is not a law of our own but of Uncle Sam's and there is no getting around it by us, if we want to send our papers through the mail.

On April first (time set by Uncle Sam) we will have to discontinue all papers that are not paid up to that time, (April 1st, 1908.)

We would ask that any subscriber whose red tag on the paper does not read "raplo8" or later, give this matter their immediate attention. Remember this is Uncle Sam's law, not ours.

Oklahoma Democrats are getting in the band wagon early. They have already declared for Bryan, each one of the seventy-five counties in the State having taken such action.

Chicago expects to get this year $1,687,000 as its share of the earnings of the traction lines. As soon as the money is placed on exhibition by the municipality the other towns will begin to have faith.

Crop conditions are reported unusually promising, the wheels of trade are moving and prosperity is returning in all parts of the country. There is nothing in the general situation upon which the Democrats can hope to predicate a successful campaign.

For some time the Democrats have claimed Roosevelt as being on their side, but now come the Socialists and Anarchists and claim the president is one of them at heart. This declaration was made by Alexander Berkman, one of the leading "reds" of the country, the man who shot Henry Frick and served a long prison sentence. What next.

Splendid reports of the banks—including the city banks and the ones at Manila and Glenwood—were published this week. While at no time during the recent flurry was there cause for uneasiness over their condition, yet it is very gratifying to note the old time figures. In the way of resources, the institutions present reassuring figures and for this time of the year, the totals are very satisfactory.

Some pretty large gifts were made last year. According to one estimate these gifts amounted to $120,000,000. In round numbers the gifts to education were $71,000,000; to religion, over $9,000,000; to museums, art galleries and public improvements, over $17,000,000, and to libraries, under $3,000,000. But these items only aggregate $100,000,000.

Since the first of the year the "small holdings" law has been in operation in England, and a great deal is hoped for from this new measure. Its object is to cut up the many immense estates into small holdings, as they exist in the continent of Europe, and thus increase the rural population. But it is very doubtful that it will prove efficacious for the reason that in the present state of agricultural competition farming cannot be made to pay in many parts of the British Isles.

A peculiar move and radical departure is proposed in Bartholomew county, and that is nothing more or less than to permit the Hon. Hugh Th. Miller, who is a candidate for governor, to select the sixteen delegates that will represent Bartholomew county in the Republican State convention. It would seem that such a proceeding would be rather out of the ordinary, and it might even be regarded as high-handed and extremely irregular. Of course, it is naturally to be expected that the delegation of Bartholomew county will be for Mr. Miller.

Almost every year large sections of India suffer from famine on account of failure of crops due to lack of water. The American system of driven wells, pumps and windmills has now been introduced, and if it were generally adopted the problem of irrigation would be solved and prosperity would bless the people. But three things block the way—the poverty of the Hindoo farmer, his lack of mechanical ingenuity and his deep seated aversion to machinery and modern methods of agriculture. Thus it is that despite the best efforts of the government the people stand in the way of their own good because of their ignorance and superstitious prejudice.

The crusade against child labor—righteous and proper enough where the child is deprived of the right to health and education—has brought out a great deal of namby-pamby sentiment in regard to allowing children to have a "good time," meaning an idle time. They have the best time, though they may not always realize it, when they do a certain amount of useful work. Mr. Mosby, a State official of Missouri, preaches sound doctrine when he urges the importance of teaching young people, even children to work. He would not have the child taxed beyond the limits of healthful exercise, but he would have him taught the importance of a necessity of labor—that "labor is the highest law of liberty and life." The failure to instill this principle and to train boys in useful and lucrative occupations is, he rightfully declares, a menace to society and to our industrial supremacy. His remarks are in wholesome contrast to much that is said in regard to work by young people.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 26.—That there has been a marked decrease in the number of persons convicted of murder in Indiana each year since 1905 is shown by reports at the office of Governor Hanly. It is shown that the number committed to the state reformatory for murder in 1907 was nineteen. All of these, of course, were sentenced on charges of manslaughter. The number committed to the state prison on the charge of murder in 1907 was thirty-three. Of these seventeen were sentenced for life and thirteen were sentenced on manslaughter charges, the sentence being from two to twenty-one years in each case. "The decrease in the number of persons convicted of murder in Indiana in the last two years is remarkable," said the governor. "For the calendar year 1907 there were but fifty-two convictions, as against sixty-one in 1906 and 165 in 1905, and the ratio of the number of persons convicted to the number of persons arrested and charged with the crime of murder, was higher both in 1906 and 1907 than in 1905. The enforcement of the law requiring saloons to close at 11 o'clock and to remain closed on Sunday and on legal holidays, has been an important factor in the lessening of this great crime, one in which physical violence is always necessarily involved."

A movement said to have as its object the retirement of Thos. Taggart as national committeeman from Indiana, will probably be started at the meeting of the Democratic state committee here next week. At that time, it is said, an effort will be made to amend the rules of the organization so that the delegates to the national convention shall be elected in their various congressional districts. For many years the Democrats have elected their delegates to the national convention at the state convention. The delegates to the latter have elected the national delegates. When the state organization was trying to obtain an endorsement of Judge Parker in the convention four years ago, the Hearst forces tried to have the rules amended so that the national delegates would be elected in their own districts. The Parker forces controlled the organization, however, and they ruled that the delegates should be elected here. It is an open question whether or not the anti-organization forces can control the action of the state committee on the matter, since Mr. Taggart was strong enough to bring about the election of Stokes Jackson as chairman. It is the understanding that there are at least two members of the committee who voted against Jackson who are very friendly to Mr. Taggart and who will stand by him in his race for national committeeman.

The Democratic county chairmen of the Fourth district have decided to hold a district primary May 23 to nominate a candidate for congress. On that date a primary election will be held in each of the ten counties to vote on a candidate for congress and nothing else. The candidate who receives the most votes in the district will be declared the nominee. This was the plan of Congressman Lincoln Dixon, and he had eight of the county chairmen with him. His opponents, Joseph Cravens and Nicholas Cornett, only had two county chairmen lined up to vote against the district primary plan.

When the Democratic committee meets next week it is said that the party's attitude on the temperance question will be considered, as there is division of opinion now regarding it. Some members of the committee are said to be in favor of adopting a platform that will not declare for local option, while some of the candidates for governor are pledged publicly in favor of that issue. The committee is casting about for someone to deliver the keynote speech at the state convention. The honor may fall to Benjamin F. Shiveley of South Bend.

Dr. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health, will introduce in the next legislature a bill providing for medical inspection of school children of Indiana. He says that after he lectured at Terre Haute last Wednesday he made a "superficial investigation and found fifteen defective children, some of whom cannot live to the age of maturity under their present environments. Others were afflicted with tuberculosis. Dr. Hurty says he is ashamed to admit that Indiana has no law for medical inspection of its school children.

Samuel Crumbaker of Evansville, who has the bee to run for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, called on Governor Hanly this week. He is said to be anxious to line up the governor in his behalf, as he was one of the original Hanly men several years ago. Crumbaker is not ready to announce his candidacy, but he is asking his friends to stand in readiness to help him in case of need.

THE PRESIDENT ON WATERWAYS

Sends Message to Congress Transmitting Inland Commission's Report.

SUBJECT OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Results To Be Gained by the Development of Our Inland Waterways.

Commerce Driven from the Mississippi River by Unregulated Railways.

Duties of the Government in Securing the Largest Possible Use of Our Waterways—Commission's Report Praised.

President Roosevelt sent to congress a message accompanied by the preliminary report of the inland waterways commission, the substance of which has already been published. The president tells congress that unusual care has been taken in compiling the report and that the subject with which it deals is of the utmost importance both to the present and the future of our country. The message follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a Preliminary Report from the Inland Waterways Commission, which was appointed by me last March in response to a widespread interest and demand from the people. The basis of this demand lay in the general and admitted inability of the railroads to handle promptly the traffic of the country, and especially the crops of the previous fall.

This report is well worth your attention. It is thorough, conservative, sane, and just. It represents the mature judgment of a body of men exceptionally qualified, by personal experience and knowledge of conditions throughout the United States, to understand and discuss the great problem of how best to use our waterways in the interest of all the people. Unusual care has been taken to secure accuracy and balance of statement. If the report errs at all it is by over-conservatism. It contains findings or statements of fact, a number of specific recommendations, and an account of inquiries still in progress, and it is based in part on statistics and other information contained in a voluminous appendix. The subject with which it deals is of critical importance both to the present and the future of our country.

Rivers Poorly Developed.

Our river systems are better adapted to the needs of the people than those of any other country. In extent, distribution, navigability, and ease of use, they stand first. Yet the rivers of no other civilized country are so poorly developed, so little used, or play so small a part in the industrial life of the nation as those of the United States. In view of the use made of rivers elsewhere, the failure to use our own is astonishing, and no thoughtful man can believe that it will last. The accompanying report indicates clearly the reasons for it and the way to end it.

The Commission finds that it was unregulated railroad competition which prevented or destroyed the development of commerce on our inland waterways. The Mississippi, our greatest natural highway, is a case in point. At one time the traffic upon it was without a rival in any country. The report shows that commerce was driven from the Mississippi by the railroads. While production was limited, the railways, with their convenient terminals, gave quicker and more satisfactory service than the waterways. Later they prevented the restoration of river traffic by keeping down their rates along the rivers, recouping themselves by higher charges elsewhere. They also acquired water fronts and terminals to an extent which made water competition impossible. Throughout the country the railways have secured such control of canals and steamboat lines that to-day inland waterway transportation is largely in their hands. This was natural and doubtless inevitable under the circumstances, but it should not be allowed to continue unless under careful Government regulation.

Requires Intelligent Regulation.

Comparatively little inland freight is carried by boat which is not carried a part of its journey by rail also. As the report shows, the successful development and use of our interstate waterways will require intelligent regulation of the relations between rail and water traffic. When this is done the railways and waterways will assist instead of injure each other. Both will benefit, but the chief benefit will accrue to the people in general through quicker and cheaper transportation.

The report rests throughout on the fundamental conception that every waterway should be made to serve the people as largely and in as many different ways as possible. It is poor business to develop a river for navigation in such a way as to prevent its use for power, when by a little foresight it could be made to serve both purposes. We can not afford needlessly to sacrifice power to irrigation, or irrigation to domestic water supply, when by taking thought we may have all three. Every stream should be used to the utmost. No stream can be so used unless such use is planned for in advance. When such plans are made we shall find that, instead of interfering, one use can often be made to assist another. Each river system, from its headwaters in the forest to its mouth on the coast, is a single unit and should be treated as such. Navigation of the lower reaches of a stream can not be fully developed without the control of floods and low waters by storage and drainage. Navigable channels are directly concerned with the protection of source waters, and with soil erosion which takes the materials for bars and shoals from the richest positions of our farms. The use of a stream for domestic and municipal water supply, for power, and in many cases for irrigation must also be taken into full account.

For National Defense.

The development of our inland waterways will have results far beyond the immediate gain to commerce. Deep channels along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes will have high value for the national defense. The use of water-power will measurably relieve the drain upon our diminishing supplies of coal, and transportation by water instead of rail only will tend to conserve our iron. Forest protection, without which river improvement cannot be permanent, will at the same time help to postpone the threatened timber famine, and will secure us against a total dearth of timber by providing for the perpetuation of the remaining woodlands. Irrigation will create the means of livelihood for millions of people, and supplies of pure water will powerfully promote the public health. If the policy of waterways improvement here recommended is carried out, it will affect for good every citizen of the Republic. The National Government must play the leading part in securing the largest possible use of our waterways; other agencies can assist, and should assist, but the work is essentially national in its scope.

What Congress Should Do.

The various uses of waterways are now dealt with by Bureaus scattered through four federal Departments. At present, therefore, it is not possible to deal with a river system as a single problem. But the Commission here recommends a policy under which all the commercial and industrial uses of the waterways may be developed at the same time. To that end, Congress should provide some administrative machinery for coordinating the work of the various Departments so far as it relates to waterways. Otherwise there will not only be delay, but the people as a whole will fail to get from our streams the benefits to which they are justly entitled.

The Commission recognizes that the cost of improving our inland waterways will be large, but far less than would be required to relieve the congestion of traffic by railway extension. The benefits of such improvement will be large also, and they will touch the daily life of our people at every point, uniting the interests of all the States and sections of our country. The cost and the benefits should be equitably distributed, by co-operation with the States and the communities, corporations, and individuals beneficially affected. I heartily concur in the Commission's recommendation to this end. Such co-operation should result in united effort in carrying out the great duty of improving our inland waterways. While we delay, our rivers remain unused, our traffic is periodically congested, and the material wealth and natural resources of the country related to waterways are being steadily absorbed by great monopolies.

Schemes of Corporations.

Among these monopolies, as the report of the Commission points out, there is no other which threatens, or has ever threatened, such intolerable interference with the daily life of the people as the consolidation of companies controlling water power. I call your special attention to the attempt of the power corporations, through bills introduced at the present session, to escape from the possibility of Government regulation in the interest of the people. These bills are intended to enable the corporations to take possession in perpetuity of national forest lands for the purposes of their business, where and as they please, wholly without compensation to the public. Yet the effect of granting such privileges, taken together with rights already acquired under States laws, would be to give away properties of enormous value. Through lack of foresight we have formed the habit of granting without compensation extremely valuable rights amounting to monopolies on navigable streams and on the public domain. The repurchase at great expense of water rights thus carelessly given away without return has already begun in the East, and before long will be necessary in the West also. No rights involving water power should be granted to any corporations in perpetuity, but only for a length of time sufficient to allow them to conduct their business profitably. A reasonable charge should of course be made for valuable rights and privileges which they obtain from the National Government. The values for which this charge is made will ultimately, through the natural growth and orderly development of our population and industries, reach enormous amounts. A fair share of the increase should be safeguarded for the benefit of the people, from whose labor it springs. The proceeds thus secured, after the cost of administration and improvement has been met, should naturally be devoted to the development of our inland waterways.

Valuable Natural Asset.

The report justly calls attention to the fact that hitherto our national policy has been one of almost unrestricted disposition and waste of natural resources, and emphasizes the fundamental necessity for conserving these resources upon which our present and future success as a nation primarily rests. Running water is a most valuable natural asset of the people, and there is urgent need for conserving it for navigation, for power, for irrigation, and for domestic and municipal supply.

The Commission was appointed to obtain information concerning our waterways as related to the general welfare. Much work was done, but more remains to be done before a plan for their development can be prepared in detail. We need additional information on the flow of our streams, the condition of channels, the amount and cost of water traffic, the requirements for terminals, the area in each watershed which should be kept under forest, and the means of preventing soil-waste and the consequent damage to our rivers. But it is neither necessary nor desirable to postpone the beginning of the work until all the facts are obtainable. We have suffered heavily in the past from the lack of adequate transportation facilities, and unless a beginning is made promptly we shall suffer still more heavily in the future.

Mississippi Loop of Sea.

Being without funds or an expert staff, the Commission has confined itself to principles affecting the whole problem and the entire country. Its report is a plea, in the light of actual facts, for simplicity and directness in dealing with the great problem of our inland waterways in the interest of the people. It submits no specific plans or recommendations concerning even the most important projects. The first of these of course concerns the Mississippi and its tributaries, whose commercial development will directly affect half our people. The Mississippi should be made a loop of the sea and work upon it should be begun at the earliest possible moment. Only less important is the Atlantic inner passage, parts of which are already under way. The inner passages along the Gulf coast should be extended and connected with the Atlantic waters. The need for the developing of the Pacific coast rivers is not less pressing. Our people are united in support of the immediate adoption of a progressive policy of inland waterway development.

Hitherto our national policy of inland waterway development has been largely negative. No single agency has been responsible under the congress for making the best use of our rivers, or for exercising foresight in their development. In the absence of a comprehensive plan, the only safe policy was one of repression and procrastination. Frequent changes of plan and piecemeal execution of projects have still further hampered improvement. A channel is no deeper than its shallowest reach, and to improve a river short of the point of effective navigability is a sheer waste of all its costs. In spite of large appropriations for their improvement, our rivers are less serviceable for interstate commerce today than they were half a century ago, and in spite of the vast increase in our population and commerce they are on the whole less used.

Definite and Progressive Policy.

The first condition of successful development of our waterways is a definite and progressive policy. The second is a concrete general plan, prepared by the best experts available, covering every use to which our streams can be put. We shall not succeed until the responsibility for administering the policy and executing and extending the plan is definitely laid on one man or group of men who can be held accountable. Every portion of the general plan should consider and so far as practicable secure to the people the use of water for power, irrigation, and domestic supply as well as for navigation. No project should be begun until the funds necessary to complete it promptly are provided, and no plan once under way should be changed except for grave reasons. Work once begun should be prosecuted steadily and vigorously to completion. We must make sure that projects are not undertaken except for sound business reasons, and that the best modern business methods are applied in executing them. The decision to undertake any project should rest on actual need ascertained by investigation and judgment of experts and on its relation to great river systems or to the general plan, and never on mere clamor.

The improvement of our inland waterways can and should be made to pay for itself so far as practicable from the incidental proceeds from water-power and other uses. Navigation should of course be free. But the greatest return will come from the increased commerce, growth, and prosperity of our people. For this we have already waited too long. Adequate funds should be provided, by bond issue if necessary, and the work should be delayed no longer. The development of our waterways and the conservation of our forests are the two most pressing physical needs of the country. They are interdependent, and they should be met vigorously, together, and at once. The questions of organization, powers, and appropriations are now before the congress. There is urgent need for prompt and decisive action.

THE SALT OF THE EARTH IN THIS HELL SHOULD BE PREACHED

Suit Continued in Rush Circuit Court Yesterday Recalls Salted Oil Well

STONE-DAY SUIT ON NOTE

Promises to Bring out a Full
History of the Buena Vista Oil Field (?) Swindle

The case of C. M. Stone vs. Charles
Day, set for trial in the Rush circuit
court yesterday was continued.

The suit is one that originated
through the organization of the company that tried to develop an oil well
at Buena Vista. Mr. Day is a well known Laurel citizen and was interested in the Buena Vista enterprise.
He executed a note to O'Connell, the promoter of the company for a sum amounting to about $300. This note
later came into the possession of Mr.
Stone. Day refuses payment, alleging fraud on the part of O'Connell. Stone
appears in the case as an innocent
party and seeks to hold Day to his obligations and his investment.

When the case comes to trial it is likely that some interesting things in connection with the history of the famous Buena Vista Oil company will be brought to light by the evidence.

It is claimed that this oil well was "salted"—that is, several barrels of oil were poured into it at night and pumped out the next day in the presence of several parties, in order to make it appear that oil had been struck, and thus boost the sale of the company's stock.

A large number of people in this county, Fayette, Franklin and Decatur invested in the stock. O'Connell,
however, is said to have lost heavily
in the enterprise and whether the well was "salted" or not, he was not able to realize anything from the sale
of stock.

cumbs to Pneumonia at her Home in Kansas

Relatives have received word of the death of Mrs. Rachel S. Rush, which occurred yesterday at her home in Leavenworth, Kansas, from bronchial
pneumonia, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Rush, nee Sexton, was born in Rushville, in 1829, at the old Sexton
homestead, on Main street, which stood where the Christian church is now located. Mrs. Rush was a daughter of Dr. Horatio G. and Hannah Sexton, and was a sister of Mrs.
Theo. Abercrombie, of this city, and Cramer Sexton, of Memphis, Tenn.,
who survive her, and of Dr. Marshall
Sexton, Governor Lon Sexton, Oliver
Sexton, Mrs. Logan Abernathy, and Mrs. Alma E. Spaulding, all deceased.

Mrs. Rush had lived in Kansas since before the Civil war. Funeral services and interment will occur at

By Ministers More than it is Declared Evangelist Willis
Last Night

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Tonight Mr. Willis will Preach
his Famous Sermon "Running
the Blockade"

Evangelist Willis preached to a large
and appreciative audience at the First Presbyterian church last evening on the subject of "Hell."

Mr. Willis said in the beginning that hell was not preached as much
as it should be, and when preachers
did touch upon it, it was only in a casual way, which made no impression on people who ought to be touched.

"Many like to believe in a heaven,
but dislike to believe in a hell, but
then there is a Bible heaven and a Bible hell," said the evangelist, "and we are on the road to one place or the other."

"The way people get to hell is through sin. God never sent any man to hell, but desires that all shall
be saved and if you are lost it is your own doings."

In speaking of the kind of a place
hell is the speaker said: "Hell is a place of awful torment and mental anguish, where there will be weeping
and wailing and gnashing of teeth.
The punishment is everlasting and the
awful thing about it is there is no
way out of hell."

In enumerating the ones who go to hell, the evangelist named over many,
including the fool, the adulterer, those
who offend, those who do not fear
God, the lustful, hypocrites, Pharisees,
the wicked and unbelievers and

CHAPTER IV.

MOST people considered Georgiana Ellery a very beautiful girl. She was of a tall regal type, her stateliness of bearing and austerity of thought rather at odds with the soft womanliness of her countenance and the mellow sweetness of her voice. In spite of the seriousness with which she took herself and her "views," a seriousness which the light minded found a little wearing, her forceful personality held a charm which, with her beauty, gave her a very marked distinction.

Just now her benevolent glance moved about the table to take stock, as it were, of material. These seemingly commonplace Morningstars, she felt sure, could be reached through contact with the high thinking which it was her unremitting aim to express. They already possessed that plain living which she had been taught to recognize, in theory at least, as a necessary concomitant to the former.

There was, first of all, the young man who sat opposite her, the farm hand. He certainly looked capable (in spite of his rough overalls and his name, which was Pete) of higher things. He had rather refined features. And his face was not unintelligent. His brow really suggested the possibility of "thought power"—if haply she might awaken it.

The other men at the table, the insignificant little farmer, with his keen, mouse-like face, and his stalwart son Abe, who assisted his father on the farm, were perhaps a bit farther removed from the sphere of her influence. But in the freshness of her enthusiasm she was ready to try even upon them.

As for the women, there were possibilities, no doubt, in Mrs. Morningstar and decidedly so in that really pretty girl, Eunice. The only one of them all who appeared to her rather hopelessly unresponsive was Ollie, the buxom, heavy faced daughter of the house, whose dark, sullen countenance would have dampened an ardor even warmer than that of Miss Ellery. Seated beside Georgiana was her cousin, Daisy Parks, whose fluffy, puffy prettiness and irresponsible air of frivolity were, to tell the truth, a bit refreshing as over against Miss Ellery's oppressive superiority.

"Now," said Mr. Morningstar as, after a long silent grace, he jerked his chair closer to the table and fell to, "just you act yourselves natural and take what you see."

He reached to the middle of the table and picked up a heavy platter of fried ham to help himself, unmindful of his guests. "We all do our own serving in the country. To be sure, if there's children we help them. But me, I always say if it's on the table I kin git it all right!"

He laughed, with his mouth full of meat, and proceeded to stretch across the table for everything he wanted.

"Yes," Mrs. Morningstar added in her loud, boisterous tones, as she, too, reached for what she wanted, "out here when folks goes on company they must used themselves to do their own stretchin' and not expect to be waited on."

"How quaint!" exclaimed Miss Daisy Parks. She promptly reached far across the board for a slice of bread. "If you want that you must climb!" she quoted.

"Please, Daisy!" entreated Georgiana, "don't be slangy! You promised me."

Daisy pressed her hand to her heart. "Stung again! How can I be so forgetful when I know how it bumps you, Georgie!" she said with mock remorsefulness.

"I hope," Mrs. Morningstar cried as she saw that, in spite of her urging, the boarders did not help themselves with the businesslike alacrity to be looked for in those who were paying for their food, "that you'll like my wittles. If I do say it myself, I kin cook when I know folks is comin'. To be sure, sometimes they come unexpected. Yes, just so sure as I say to pop or the girls, 'Now we'll warm up these here stumps that's left and eat 'em up once'—then beware! Strangers is sure to come unexpected. Ain't, Ollie?"

Ollie colored with embarrassment at being appealed to and murmured an answer under her breath.

"Our creature comforts are of such minor importance," spoke Georgiana's musical voice as she lifted her handsome dark head and smiled from her high plane upon the Morningstars in a sort of benediction. "Material things absorb most of us too much—don't you think so?—leaving us too little time for the things that are really worth while in life."

Georgiana observed that the farm hand, Pete, looked impressed as she spoke as though a ray of light had penetrated his darkened mind. The rest of the family appeared unresponsive—unless perhaps that girl Eunice manifested some slight signs of receptivity—Georgiana could not be sure.

As for Miss Parks, she always hung upon Georgiana's words as though unwilling to miss one pearl which dropped from the lips of her oracular cousin, her admiration being commensurate with her inability to grasp Georgiana's deep meanings.

Mrs. Morningstar, however, disappointedly betrayed her obtuseness to truth by responding with an apology for her appearance. "I most always put another frock on till the afternoon a'ready, and so does Ollie still (Eunice she ain't got the time to), but we didn't get 'em on yet till yous got here, so you see us lookin' some hard."

"It is yourself we wish to see, not your clothes, Mrs. Morningstar," Georgiana said encouragingly. "Externals are lost sight of when once one gets below the surface to the real person."

Mrs. Morningstar blushed and looked shocked, while her son Abe at her side colored all over his fat, sunburned neck.

"To be sure," the farmer's wife replied dubiously, "I wouldn't think much of that practice—lettin' folks see you undressed?"

Georgiana, whose eyes were upon Pete, noticed that he smiled. She sank back in her chair, a shade of disappointment in her face. But she would not despair. The potential good in every human soul must eventually awaken to the right touch.

"Eunice," sharply ordered Mrs. Morningstar, her tone in addressing her foster child noticeably unlike that in which she spoke to any one else, "don't you see the fried smashed potatoes is all? Why don't you mind yourself and fill the dish up once?"

The girl, without any response and with no change in the pensiveness of her countenance, rose to do as she was bid. The delicacy and refinement of her face made one expect to see her embarrassed by such rude harshness in the presence of strangers. But she did not appear to be even conscious of it.

"Doc," Mrs. Morningstar addressed Pete as the girl brought back the potato dish from the stove, "don't you want some more smashed potatoes?"

Miss Parks paused in her dainty sipping of her milk (the Morningstar coffee and tea being impossible) and looked interested.

"Are you a doctor?" she inquired wonderingly as Peter without replying to the landlady helped himself to potatoes.

There was an instant's silence, no one offering a reply at once.

"Och," said Mrs. Morningstar abruptly, with a confusion unaccountable to the two young ladies, "that's just a title he goes by around here still."

"Why?" pursued Miss Parks with frank curiosity.

"I don't know fur why," she said hastily. "Won't yous have some coffee? This here coffee cost 14 cents a pound, so I think it might be worth the taste some like that there coffee we got a cup of the time we was to Phil-dephy and took a piece at Wanamaker's place. But that there coffee was, now, wonderful good tasted! The best I ever seen. And mind to what it cost yet! Ten cents a cup! I thought I'd drop when the colored gent man sated to pop we owed a quarter apiece—me and pop—fur just four little buckwheat cakes and a cup of coffee apiece! It spited me so I couldn't take no more enjoyment out of nothin' all the rest of the day. That give me all I wanted of goin' to a big city! That—and a awful scenery we seen in Broad street station—the form of two women comin' towards us—drunk! You mind of it, pop? I'd never witnessed such a scenery before as a woman drunk! That there was my first and my last trip to Phil-dephy. A trip to Meckville's good enough fur me after that. And such a hurryin' and a crowdin' as there is still in a big city! It seems as the folks there never thinks of the here—after the way they hurry along the street. Will yous have some coffee?"

The fourteen cent coffee was declined, evidently to the surprise of the rest of the family.

"Our cookin'," continued Mrs. Morningstar boastfully, "ain't done by no hired girl. When we used to be at hotelin', nineteen years back, a travelin' man ast me once, 'Where's your cook?' 'Me and Lizzie's her,' I said. 'Lizzie was my sister, deceased, this while back a'ready.' 'Us we do our own cookin', I tole him. Well, I guess, anyhow!'"

"Yous ain't like some," spoke up Mr. Morningstar, his tone expressing his gratification at the dainty appetites of his boarders as they both declined more potatoes. "Some wants to eat their money's worth anyhow if they're more thought like you we'd make more at keepin' summer boarders. We could accommodate a many more. We kin lay eight and set ten."

PLAN TO HELP FARMERS.

Experiments on One Acre Plots in Western States.

Representative Charles F. Scott of Kansas, chairman of the house committee on agriculture, has conceived a novel plan which, he believes, would enable the farmers of the United States to produce better and far larger crops than heretofore.

Mr. Scott's proposition involves the establishment of 100 experimental farms of one acre each in every county in a group of four western agricultural states for the purpose of giving the farmers a practical demonstration of the best methods of growing different crops. It is proposed that the lands for this purpose shall be provided by the farmers themselves and that they shall do the work of cultivation under the direction of the experts of the department of agriculture. No additional appropriation from congress will be required to test Mr. Scott's plan. It is explained, as the agricultural department has the requisite number of experts to carry it out.

Mr. Scott asserts that enough money is being wasted by the department in sending out farm bulletins and other government documents to carry out his idea. He says that much valuable information has been given by the experts in these publications, but their contents are so little understood by the farmers that they do not derive the knowledge from them which they should obtain as to the best methods of growing corn, wheat, hay and other crops.

WORLD'S MINING EXHIBIT.

International Exposition to Be Held in New York in May and June.

Under the management of a mining exposition company which was incorporated a little more than a year ago there will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, from May 25 to June 30 the first exhibition of practical mining methods and of the products of mines in all parts of the world ever held in New York.

This international mining exposition is designed as an educational measure. The officers and those interested in the exposition company feel that the mining business suffers from the lack of knowledge which the general public has of it, and they believe that this and other exhibitions will eliminate certain popular but false ideas.

The exposition has been divided into seven different departments. The first is that of mining machinery and the second that of minerals from the United States and foreign governments. Then there will be an exhibition of mining camps, which will illustrate the different methods of mining, including a miners' drilling contest. It is hoped that one mining company will install a mine in full operation. There are also to be on exhibition deposits of various kinds of metals, all sorts of precious stones, mineral jewelry and lapidary work.

One exhibit will be that of the mineral resources of the United States.

RUSH TO RAWHIDE.

Wild Influx to Nevada Gold Camp Duplicate of Klondike.

The original rush to Klondike is being duplicated in a wild stampede from all parts of the coast to Rawhide, Nev., the new gold mining camp halfway between Reno and Tonopah, in the Nevada desert. In a few weeks 3,500 persons have rushed into the tent city.

There are now four newspapers and three banks, and gold seekers are offering as high as $75 at Reno to be taken by automobile to Rawhide, with no accommodations even at that figure. Eight automobile lines are running into Rawhide from different surrounding cities. Proprietors of tent hotels rent beds for eight hour shifts, making each bed accommodate three men in twenty-four hours.

A curious thing about the discovery of Rawhide is that the ledge was found twenty feet from one side of the old Wadsworth stage road, which has been used for fifty years, with its hundreds upon hundreds of miners and travelers giving no heed to the lime rock outcropping which recent inspection has shown to be the corroded exposed part of a ledge surprisingly rich in gold. Samples of ore assay as high as $50,000 to the ton.

hungry or if they ain't. Now, there's me," he said jocularly, "I believe I'd eat three meals at once (when one would do me) if I could get 'em fur nothin'." When I was a young man I went out west fur awhile. I often had heard so much about this west so I thought now I'd go see it fur myself once. Well, I stayed two years, and when I come back the first meal I took was in such a cafe in Phil-dephy with a man where was goin' to buy some cattle off of me, and I said now I'd take oysters, once I had the chance, because you couldn't git 'em in the west, so first I ordered fried (him he eat a beefsteak). Well, I eat them six fried, and then I ordered a stew. Them I eat, too, and so I says now I take 'em raw. The hotel waiter he says to me, 'You don't live in Phil-dephy, do you?' 'No,' I says, 'I lived in the west this while back, and I can't git oysters out there.' 'Yes,' the waiter he says, 'I thought so.' Well, when I was only half through my dozen raw ones I didn't feel fur eatin' no more, but I paid fur 'em, so I hated to let 'em. I coaxed this here man where [who] was with me to eat 'em. 'No,' I'm full,' he says. 'If you can't eat 'em, let 'em.' 'I don't want to see 'em wasted,' I says. 'Now, me, I ain't like you,' he says. 'If I ordered a steak and had enough when half was eat I'd let the other half, whether I'd paid fur it or not.' But I just couldn't stand it to let them oysters and go off. 'Git your fork here,' I says to the feller. 'Help me to eat 'em.' 'No,' he says. 'You can't git 'em in the west—eat!' So I eat two more. But still there was a many on the dish. 'Now I quit!' I says and throwed down my fork. 'I can't make it!' So," he concluded with reminiscent regret, "them seven raw ones I had to let."

The effect of this recital upon Miss Ellery was to sadden her. Her Cousin Daisy, as her satellite, tried to copy her expression, but with indifferent success.

"Mister he always could eat harty," said Mrs. Morningstar. "Me, I'm different to what he is. Mornings and evenings I can hardly eat ever. Dinner I eat pretty good. But here this winter Mister he had his pest—three caruncles and near fifty boils. Then he couldn't eat neither."

Georgiana tried to divert the talk to another plane. "Do you know one thing that led me to wish to summer here when I saw your advertisement in the paper was your name—Morningstar—so full of suggestion. I have always thought names so significant. I thought," she said, smiling sweetly, "that I should be happy in a country home with people bearing a name so full of poetic meaning, so suggestive of the spiritual healthfulness of rural life."

Mrs. Morningstar looked bewildered. "So?" she said vaguely. "Well, if only

AMUSEMENTS

Tuneful, racy music, a wealth of popular song hits, an intensely interesting story full of sunshine, laughter and love, are all bespoken for "Bud Hicks The Yankee Doodle Boy," Powell and Cohan's new comedy-drama with music which makes its first appearance here Friday, Feb. 28th at the Grand theatre. "Bud Hicks" an audacious young fellow is the central figure. He is slangy, but you love him from the moment he makes his first entrance, he is so typically American. Bud's "long suit" is making love and he tries the effect of his fatal beauty (as he expresses it) on every pretty girl he meets. Finally, however, he encounters his affinity in the form of Miss Truly Spencer of Lowner's Grov., Ill., and it's "all off" with Bud—the biter is bitten. He falls desperately in love, but Truly is a tease and keeps him guessing. Ten big song hits are introduced throughout the acting of the play, the scenery is fine and lighting effects novel.

Colds and Cologne. Grip and colds, according to a French physician, will yield if met at the very beginning with a copious supply of the best cologne. Pour the cologne into a handkerchief rolled to a funnel and inhale the fumes steadily every two or three minutes. After a burning sensation has been experienced one may wait ten or fifteen minutes before taking another sniff. If the bad symptoms have not subsided after twelve hours of this remedy it shows that the malady was too far under way.

Closer to Nature. We get closer to nature when we are creating, whether in art, in literature, in invention or in working at new and progressive ideas. We can feel our mind reach out into infinity and grasp and bring back something fresh, new, something never seen on this earth before.—Success Magazine.

Stood by His Theory. Thales, the ancient philosopher, declared that there was no difference between life and death. "Why, then," cried one of those to whom the remark was made, "don't you put an end to your life?" "Because," was the reply, "there is no difference."

Historic Doors For Yale.

Two doors of the parsonage in Bradford, Conn., where the ten ministers met in the year 1700 and gave the books for the founding of Yale college, are to be mounted and placed in the university library, says the Yale Alumni Weekly. The two doors were originally mounted on swinging hinges and opened into the room where the ministers gathered. They are the gift of George Dudley Seymour of New Haven, Conn., who obtained them when the old house was torn down and presented them to the university at the time of the bicentennial celebration. It was planned to make them into panels in the doors which open between Linsly hall and Chittenden library, and for this purpose they were preserved unmounted. When Linsly hall was completed, however, and the old doors were inspected, it was decided that they were too frail to stand the wear and tear of actual service, and it has been decided to mount them on swinging hinges in a glass cabinet, where they will stand in the same relative position to each other as in the old Bradford house. The relics are especially valuable from an antiquarian standpoint, as they are the oldest parts known which belonged to any building connected with Yale history.

TO NEW YORK BY GOAT TEAM

Los Angeles Cripple Plans Trip Which Will Take a Year's Time.
A journey from coast to coast by goat team is planned by Captain Vivian Edwards. From Los Angeles to New York city four goats will draw the diminutive buggy in which he will ride.

The start will be made as soon as the weather clears, and Edwards hopes to keep continually on the road until his strange trip has been completed, with the exception of Sundays, when the animals will be given an opportunity to rest.

"I expect to make the journey within one year's time," said the captain the other day to a reporter of the Los Angeles Times. "My goat team can cover fourteen miles a day over good roads, and with favorable weather that speed can be kept up day after day without overtaxing the animals. The heavier articles of my outfit will be carried by the burros which will accompany me."

Edwards, who is a cripple and unable to walk, has already covered thousands of miles with his goat team, which consists of four large Angoras. Last year he went to Hastings, Neb., in 200 days.

Edwards' companion will be John Johnson, who was a sailor of the U. S. S. Raleigh at the battle of Manila Bay. He will handle the burros and have general care of the camp equipment. The trip eastward will be over the southern route.

AID FOR HOBOES.

Their Apostle Tells How They Differ From Tramps and Bums.

John Ellis, apostle of "the unemployed," had a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House the other morning, in which he differentiated for Mr. Roosevelt the three classes of undesirable citizens known as tramps, bums and hoboes.

He brought to the president the set of resolutions adopted at the St. Louis convention of these three classes and reported Mr. Roosevelt as having been much interested in them. They have to do with schemes for improving the condition of the unemployed, and Ellis says the president promised his hearty support for that work.

"The unemployed" does not mean tramps and bums," said Ellis. "You may call them hoboes if you will, but do not confound hoboes with tramps and bums. Hoboes work and wander, tramps dream and wander, and bums drink and wander. Work interferes with the life of the tramp and bum but never with that of the hobo."

GOOD OLD ARMY

While Other Racers Stopped to Dine, Courier Car Overcame Big Handicap.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Thickly coated with mud, but otherwise in good condition, the first of the racing automobiles reached this city late yesterday afternoon. It was the army machine which is carrying a message from General Grant in New York to Fort Leavenworth, and which started three days after the internationals. The second car to make its appearance was the American, which is still leading the other contestants in the race from New York to Paris. It was five minutes behind the message bearer. The American car was in the lead at Hobart, Ind., a short distance from Chicago, and its crew stopped there to dine with members of the pilot car which left Chicago for the purpose of acting as escort. While the dinner was in progress the army machine passed to the front. Several hundred people gathered around the Chicago Automobile club and waited in a drizzling rain the arrival of the racers. Loud and long cheers greeted the first car upon its arrival, and by the time the second machine came up the street was filled with people. The crowd was so large that traffic was at a standstill for some time and a squad of police was called to clear the street. Shortly after the machines were turned in at the club house they were taken to a garage.

The crews of both cars stated after their arrival that they experienced little difficulty after leaving Hobart. It is uncertain when either of the two cars will proceed on its journey.

Wife's Plea Was Effective.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—John A. Lynn, former clerk of the superior court of Cook county, who was convicted several months ago of conspiracy to defraud the county by misuse of the funds of his office and sentenced to serve a term in the penitentiary, was released last night on parole and returned to Chicago. Lynn was released by the board of pardons after listening to a petition brought by Mrs. Lynn, and to a plea by the mayor, to the effect that through impaired health and from brooding over his conviction, Lynn was losing his mind.

Death-Blow to Ancient Ferries.

New York, Feb. 26.—The Hudson river tunnel connecting New York city and Hoboken, N. J., by a passage made far below the river bottom, was formally opened yesterday afternoon when President Roosevelt pressed a button and the governors of New York and New Jersey made speeches, but it got its real christening last night when on the stroke of midnight the tunnel was opened to the public and a regular service of eight-car trains running under five-minute headway was installed.

Alto Mistook His Victim.

Denver, Col., Feb. 26.—A coroner's jury, examining into the death of Father Leo, has returned a verdict declaring that he came to his death by the felonious act of the anarchist Alto. Alto himself is still in jail at Colorado Springs and was not brought here for the inquest. Alto is said to have admitted that he mistook Father Leo for a priest whom he came from Sicily to slay in pursuit of a Sicilian feud.

CHARGES REFUTED

Naval Committee Not Much Impressed With Magazine Indictment.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The experts in naval construction—Rear Admiral Converse, retired, president of the board of construction, and Rear Admiral Capps, chief of the bureau of construction and repair, were called before the senate committee on naval affairs in the investigation of charges against the navy made by Henry Reuterdahl (who is now with the battleship fleet) in a recent magazine article. The charges were taken up in the order they appeared in the article, and at the conclusion of the extended refutations by Admiral Converse it was stated by Senator Perkins that the apologies of the committee were due the officers for having called them to answer such charges. Chairman Hale assented to this view, and no member of the committee took issue.

This incident at the conclusion of the first day's proceedings is thought to indicate that the inquiry will be short. Just before adjournment Senator Perkins said to the naval officers: "We ought to apologize to you for calling on you to refute such articles as this."

"That's true," said Chairman Hale, "but it's written in such a vein that a layman could not understand how absurd the charges are."

Senators Martin, Perkins, and Gallinger laughingly suggested that Mr. Reuterdahl should be set off the fleet if a convenient barren island could be found in the Pacific ocean.

State Pins.

One of the latest novelties is a state pin which can be worn as a scarf or as a lapel pin or as a charm for fob or other watch chain. The idea is that every man is proud of the state he was born in or that of his adoption and that he would like to show his loyalty by wearing a state pin. Each of these pins is in outline a map of some state whose name is stamped upon it, and the pin shows also by raised lines the rivers and by dots the capital and the principal cities. These state pins are sold at from 10 cents upward. You can buy one of these pins with a diamond set in that part of it where the capital is located if you want.

A Penny For Rockefeller.

John D. Rockefeller attended a reception at Augusta, Ga., recently given by the Planters' Loan and Savings bank to celebrate the opening of its new building. He went away the richer by one of the souvenir pennies that were given by the bank to all its guests. The pennies are set in aluminum on which appear the words, "Save me, and you never will go broke."

"That reminds me," said Mr. Rockefeller, "of the song which tells one how always to have tobacco in the old tobacco box."

Stillings Loses Out.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Charles A. Stillings will not be restored to duty as public printer. President Roosevelt has let this fact be known to friends who talked with him concerning the tangle in the government establishment.

Tribesmen in For It.

Paris, Feb. 26.—The government has received a dispatch from General D'Amade, commander of the French forces in Morocco, stating that he would resume operations against the tribesmen on Thursday.

Meat is high, fruit scarce, so buy Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour. A good hearty breakfast for little money.

CAMPAIGN YEAR

AND

THE YEAR 1908 WILL MAKE GREAT HISTORY

Probably no year since the Civil War has as great influence upon the United States as the coming year. The Presidential contest, both for nomination and election, involves much more than mere party rivalry. It involves the approval or rejection of the great economic reforms which mark the beginning of a new epoch in American history. It is a fight affecting every man, woman and child, and upon which the interest of the whole world is focused.

If You Get a Wireless From Your Tooth

Remember Nyal's Toothache Plugs stop toothache instantly, also obviate it by filling the cavities, excluding food, etc., which accumulates, decomposes, forms an acid and facilitates decay. They temporarily FILL and PRESERVE the teeth prior to the insertion of permanent fillings. Can be inserted with toothpick and remove when desired, but unlike so-called toothache gums and waxes, they do not melt, come out, mix with the food and upset stomach. Superior as a toothache remedy—no burn, no blister.

CARE OF THE STOMACH.
Indigestion May be Overcome
by Simple Treatment.

In the treatment of stomach troubles, the first thing to do is to get the mucous membrane of the stomach and intestines into a healthy condition.

Next in importance comes a strengthening and stimulation of the muscles of the stomach and bowels.

Both results can be best accomplished by the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, a combination of healing remedies for the raw and irritated mucous membrane and strengtheners for the stomach muscles.

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive remedy, but is an absolute cure for all stomach disorders (except cancer), and is so reliable in its action that Johnson's drug store sell it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money unless it cures. Every sufferer with stomach troubles should get a 50-cent box and test its virtue on this guarantee, that it will cost nothing unless it cures.
